

From LSUHSC to PBRC: experiences of a consulting statistician

Robbie Beyl, PhD

I will talk about my experiences during the last four years as an Assistant Professor in biostatistics at the Pennington Biomedical Research Center. Primarily, this talk will focus on the translation from a theoretical research mindset to a much more applied one. Secondary focus will be on collaboration with non-statistical researchers. Grant writing, funding sources and my personal research will also be discussed.