Students For Sustainability

A club that facilitates the greening of our campus through maintaining it's garden &
overseeing student-led projects

Who We Are

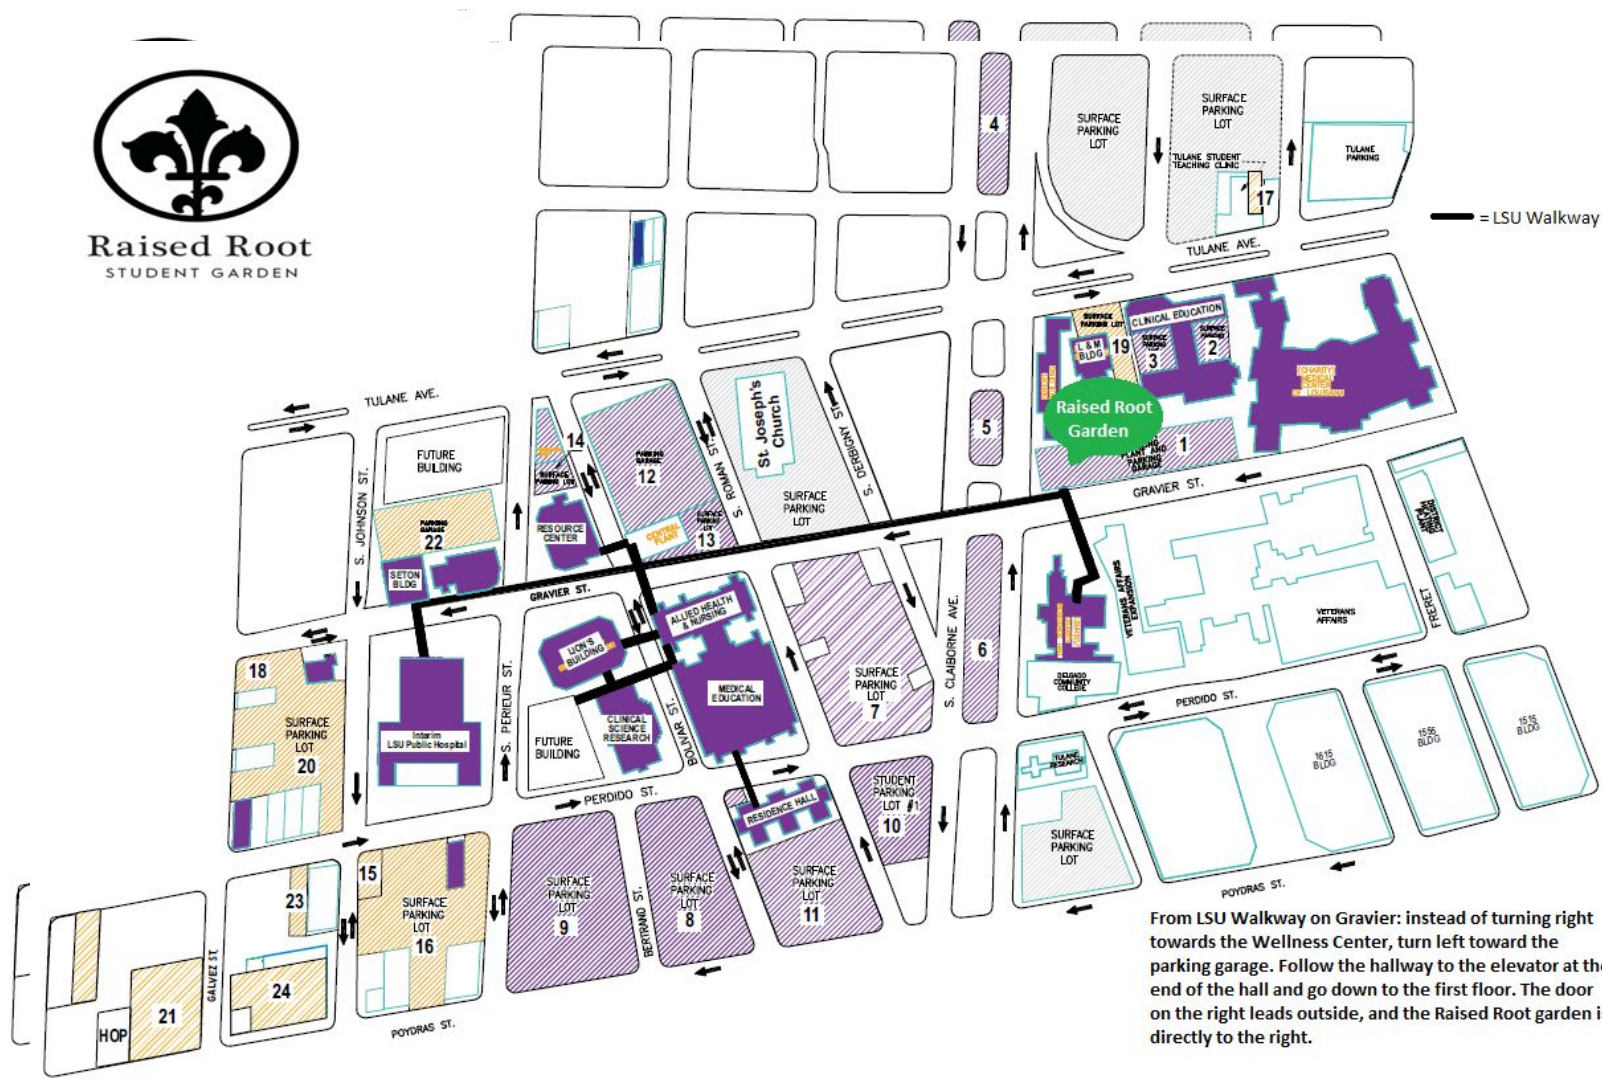

Students For Sustainability began when a few public health students couldn't find a good salad and place to enjoy it outside during their lunch break.

Through many negotiations, creative planning, and coordinating events, the Raised Root Student Garden now exists as a space to grow and enjoy healthy food!

We are excited to help promote more healthy initiatives like these, to make the Health Sciences Center a place where holistic health can be accessed by its members, and demonstrated to its surrounding community!

Raised Root
STUDENT GARDEN

From LSU Walkway on Gravier: instead of turning right towards the Wellness Center, turn left toward the parking garage. Follow the hallway to the elevator at the end of the hall and go down to the first floor. The door on the right leads outside, and the Raised Root garden is directly to the right.

Community Engagement

LSU Health
NEW ORLEANS
School of Public Health

Each month, the Practice Experience and Community Engagement Office highlights a public health organization in and around the Greater New Orleans area. The Office's intent is to provide the School of Public Health with opportunities to network, volunteer, and actively support the School's mission. The events on and off campus provide students a wonderful arena to meet preceptors and learn about practice experience sites.
